THE TRADING IS LANGUID

The Strength in Anthracite Was the Backbone of the Market Yesterday.

ONTARIO AND WESTERN HALTS

Passenger Traffic as Result of Travel to St. Louis Produced Good Effect.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 8.—Tuesday's upward movement of prices was carried over into to-day's market, and with some show of energy on the part of professional operators a respectable and quite representative showing of gains was established during the course of the trading. There was nothing in the tone of the market nor in the volume of dealings and width of the fluctuations to warrant the supposition that the day of small things in the stock market has passed away. The trading became extremely languid at the higher level, and the buying movement gave evidence of quick axhaustion. The cheerful reports from the anthracite trade made no new contrast with unfavorable general conditions, but they were given more consideration to-day. In fact, the strength in the coalers was the backbone to the whole market. The recent speculative advance in Ontario and Western was influence on that group, although the movement in that stock itself halled on prolit-takins. Some effect was produced by reports of unexpectedly large volume of passenger traffic as a result of travel to the St. Louis Exposition and extended a published story that of the Hill-Harriman Securities assets was under discussion. This story was officially denied. The largely experimental character attached to the advance was pretty clearly indicated by the casy yielding of, the later market on the regular professional profit-taking. The Iron Ages' discouraging view of the trade outlook aggravated the reaction, which left little of the days rise.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales par value, $2,35,000, United States 2s and the old 4s advanced 1-4 and the new 4s declined 1-8 per cent. on call.

where she has been confined since Young was shot to death in a cab while he was driving to a steamship pier in company with the young woman, to sail for Europe with his wife.

Nominally, sho is held as a witness under $5.000 ball, but District Attorney Jerome has intended that in case of her release, either by ball or by any other means, she will be immediately rearrested. The case took a new turn to-day, when Algernon C. Meyer, of No. 23 East Second Street, Jacksonville, Fla., publicly announced that he was a witness to the killing of Young, and stated that Young himself held the revolver which fired the fatal shot. His first story was told to the representative of a newspaper, but later in the day Meyer went to the district attorney's office and was subjected to an extended examination. His statement was taken in full by an official stenographer.

SHOOTING ACCIDENTAL.

According to Meyer, the shooting of Young appeared to be accidental. Mrs. Patterson was struggling with Young, who had the revolver in his right hand, and his right arm was around her neck. To Meyer it appeared as though Mrs. Patterson was trying to push Young away from her, or, perhaps, to take the revolver away from him. According to the policeman who first reached the cab, Mrs. Patterson sat at the left of Young. Meyer says there was another witness to the tragedy. This was a man about five feet eight inches tall, attired in a dark suit and wearing a straw hat. He had a small black moustache. This man, who was directly opposite the cab when the pistol was fired, according to the story told by Meyer, he was walking up West Broadway Saturday morning, when his attention was attracted to a hansom cab coming down the street. As he looked the occupants—a man and a woman—began to souffle.

ANOTHER WITNESS.

"As the cab appraached me," continued Meyer, "I saw that the man had a gun in his right hand. His right arm was around her neck and the hand was about on a level with her head. At first I thought he was trying to but the pistol to her head. Right in front of me the tail man with the black moustache was walking, and I saw him stop and look at the scene of the cab.

"I could see the gleam of the pistol barrel, and all at once I heard the report and saw a little smoke float up. The driver did not stop his cab. The hand with the gun in it dropped down the girl's back and she dodged away. Then the man in the cab fell over. This was just before the cab passed me, and just as the man ahead of me had run out and jumped up on the step.

"I turned and watched the cab go down the street. Then I saw it stop and saw a crowd begin to gather. I did not want to get mixed up in the case and kept away from the crowd. I had a reason for not wanting to be mixed up in the affair, but when I bought the newspapers Saturday afternoon and saw that the case looked bad for the woman, I determined to speak, if it became necessary.

"I had nover heard the name of Caesar Young nor the name of Nan Patterson before."

Getting Even.

A woman in a Lexington-Ave car, who handed a conductor 25 cents from which to take two fares, was passed a nickel and 10 pennies.

'Please give me something else instead of these pennies, she said. 'I have not room for them in my small purse.' "That's good money," reterted the conductor, brusquely.

'I am aware of that," continued the woman. 'but it is as good to you as to me. You have more room in your overcoat pocket than I have in my purse."

The conductor said nothing, but he did not take back the pennies. Two women, who had boarded the car in time to hear the conversation, looked commisseratingly at their sister in distress.

"Here!" exclaimed one of them, lean-commiseratingly at their sactories.

"Here!" exclaimed one of them, leaning toward her and profibring a dime.
"Please give me your 10 pennies."

The exchange was made, and dropping the 10 pennies into the open palm of the conductor, she smiled with seraphic sweetness and said: "Two."

The conductor looked thoughtul as he walked to the platform.—New York Press.
